ABSTRACT

In teaching vocabulary, the teacher can apply some media. One of them is flashcard. Is the objective of this Research entitled "Teaching Vocabulary using Flashcards from the Third Grade Students In Elementary School." Whether or not teaching vocabulary using flashcards improve students vocabulary. In this research, the writer used the quantitative method and one group pretest-posttest design. The instrument of this research was the vocabulary writing test. The population of this research was 36 of the third-grade students at SDN 1 Cipadangmanah in academic 2017/2018 and the sample was 32 of 36 population because the students' in completion in taking the data. The data collection technique implemented was an objective matching test. Data were analyzed quantitatively using non-parametric statistical analysis namely Wilcoxon Sign Rank Test with the help of a computer using SPSS 23. Descriptive analysis of data obtained the post-test mean score of 86.25, higher than the pre-test mean score of 72.19. The result of computation using Wilcoxon based on the table of test statistics, asymptotic significance (2-tailed) = 0.000 which is lower than 0.05. It means that the alternative hypothesis is accepted. Therefore, teaching English vocabulary using flashcards was effective to improve the students' vocabulary.
